

Inaugural Physics Summer School

Willetton Senior High School students voluntarily gave up part of their holidays to go back to study — at Murdoch University. The students (all Year 12, TEE candidates this year) took part in the University's inaugural Physics Summer School organised jointly by their science teachers Ian Wallace and Joy Cicchini, and members of Murdoch's staff. Over two days the students were introduced to advanced physics and conducted several experiments in the University's laboratories — including the use of an air table above.
